If no error then notify the user the server is loading

Error sent back if inappropriate request is sent

Request

Routing

Controller

Model

holds info about the actual data stored

Database

input successfully handled

view

takes data from controller and info about the correct display for the request

User request

is generated and sent back to the router